

PRESS RELEASE

King of Spain Visits Sigma Plant in Burgos

San Pedro Garza Garcia, N.L., Mexico, November 23, 2016.- Sigma Alimentos reported today that, His Majesty Felipe VI, King of Spain, visited subsidiary Campofrío Food Group's cold meat plant in the city of Burgos.

Two years after the previous plant was devastated by the fire, Campofrío has reemerged in this town with one of the most modern plants in the world in terms of innovation, processes and facilities. The new "Bureba" is capable of producing 100,000 tons per year and is equipped with the greatest advances in the industry, allowing a more efficient, safe and environmentally friendly operation.

During the visit, Alvaro Fernandez Garza, President of ALFA, mentioned that: "Investing once again in this place, means to give back to Spanish society, at least partially, their commitment, affection and collaboration with us". Our deep belief in Spain is demonstrated by ALFA's willingness to communicate with enthusiasm a new future and the reemerge of the company and all its employees. Therefore, I am convinced that new times will come, new challenges, new opportunities, but above all, new successes. "

During the tour through our facilities, H.M. King Felipe VI was able to assure Sigma's commitment with its collaborators and with the city of Burgos, by investing 225 million euros in the building of a new plant in the same place where the old one was burned down.

-About Sigma

Sigma Alimentos is a multinational company leader in the refrigerated food industry, which focuses on the production, marketing and distribution of quality foods within its own brands, including cold meats, cheeses, yogurt and other refrigerated and frozen foods. Sigma has a diversified portfolio of leading brands and operates 67 plants in 17 countries in four key regions: Mexico, Europe, the USA and Latin America. In 2015, Sigma reported sales of U.S. $ 5.901 million and Operating Flow of U.S. $ 869 million. Sigma employs more than 40 thousand people.

Contact Information:
Enrique Flores R.
Corporate Communication Executive
ALFA, S.A.B. de C.V.